

Nursing : to capture human beings holistically having a perspective of health and approach them in order to improve health condition and life. In a disaster field, interdisciplinary approaches are needed to protect and support human life and health; "human security."

Our professors' specialty are not only nursing, health science, medicine, but also business administration, philosophy, science, agriculture, etc.

National Disaster Medical Center

Theory of Professional Collaboration and Practice
Disaster Medical Sciences

Survival camp by USW

Global Health and Policy-making
Professional Writing
Proposal Writing, Program Writing

The public sector (the Diet, quarantine)

Garden workshop collaborating with Faculty of Horticulture

Crisis Management Theory
Disaster Psychology
Disaster and Culture
Disaster Sociology
Disaster Social Welfare

The private sector (logistics, construction)

Fieldwork in Fukushima by Hiroshima U

* Knowledge of other discipline
* Way of collaboration